

Book of Common Prayer/Grant Horner Reading Schedule

This is a plan for reading the Bible. With a few adjustments, it adapts Professor Grant Horner's Bible Reading System (for more information, and because I don't know of a better link, see here: <http://www.challies.com/sites/all/files/attachments/professor-grant-horners-bible-reading-system.pdf>) to the pattern of the daily offices of Morning and Evening Prayer from the Book of Common Prayer. There are Psalms, an Old Testament lesson, and a New Testament lesson for every morning and every evening. The Psalms are read through every month, strictly beginning at Psalm 1 on the first day of every month. The rest of the Bible is divided into groups, and one (or two) chapter(s) from each group of books is read each day. When the end of a group of books is reached, the group simply begins again. So, while the Psalms repeat each month, the rest of the Bible repeats at varying intervals, causing the set of chapters read each day to change continually. The list of books in each group is fairly tentative, so feel free to change them around as you see fit. In this iteration, the morning and evening NT readings are the same; two chapters from these lists will be read each day, one in the morning and one in the evening. These readings can be used in place of the lectionary readings in the BCP's Morning and Evening Prayer, or they can be read on their own. The main idea is to become familiar with the Bible as a whole, allowing the Bible to interpret itself as you master large portions of it. Here are a few suggestions, mainly from Prof. Horner:

1. Read quickly; don't focus on understanding every little detail. That will come with time.
2. Use the same physical Bible every day. Over time, this allows you to become familiar with where in the book and where on the page a particular passage is located.
3. Be flexible with your readings. Don't beat yourself up if you miss a day. Just keep going. Do whatever works best for you.

Here are the groups of books:
